08-30-13	News on the Magistrate Judge Research Assistance Program: The University of Idaho, College of Law — in cooperation with the Administrative Office of the Courts — is pleased to announce a new webpage for magistrate judges to easily take advantage of the Magistrate Judge Research Assistance Program. Under the guidance of Externship Director Katie Ball, law students are available to provide much needed assistance to magistrate judges for research and drafting on a case by case assignment. Click here to access the new webpage, which includes a form to request assistance, as well as contact information for Katie Ball. In addition, the link has been added to the archived Judges Page, which is parked in “Your Corner,” bottom left, page 2. All magistrate judges are encouraged to take advantage of this valuable resource. The College of Law, through Katie Ball, has worked extensively in providing research assistance to our busy magistrate courts and the Judiciary appreciates their efforts!!
